Subject: Microsoft Proposed final judgement

The proposed final judgement on the Microsoft Anti-Trust issue should be thrown out as it is lacking for several reasons.

1. The Final Judgement does not constitute any admission by any party regarding any issue of fact or law.

Microsoft should be bound to admit that their practices are anti-competitive.

2. In Section D, "Starting at the earlier of the release of Service Pack 1..." is faulty as Microsoft could simply get around the idea by calling Service Pack 1 by a different name.

3. Provisions should be made in section H to not only remove access to the products but remove the products wholly from the system without otherwise affecting the use and stability of the operating system.
